

Executive Summary: Workforce Attrition & Retention Insights

Overview: The company is facing a compounding attrition problem (overall rate: 17.3%). While overall turnover is a concern, the critical threat to the business is the continuous loss of High Performers and Leadership roles, driven heavily by poor first-year experiences and misaligned compensation.

Key Business Problems (The "What" & "Why")

- First-Year Flight (Critical Risk): 46% of all resignations happen within the first year of employment, indicating a severe failure in the onboarding process and early-stage management support.
 - Top Talent Drain: The company has lost 962 High Performers. This means we are not just losing underperformers; we are bleeding the talent that drives business value.
 - Leadership & Experience Loss: Attrition is unusually high in vital operational roles: Lead (18.7%) and Senior (17.7%).
 - Departmental Hotspots:
 - Operations (21.1% Attrition): Driven by workload and structural issues, despite having decent manager satisfaction.
 - IT & Sales (18.5% Attrition): Driven directly by poor Manager Satisfaction (Score: 2.7).
 - Compensation Inequity: Analysis shows overlapping bonus payouts across different performance scores. High performers are likely leaving because the reward structure favors "Job Level" over "Actual Performance."
 - Career Stagnation: Employees who are not promoted have a significantly higher attrition rate (17%) compared to those who are (12%).
 - Burnout Indicators: Employees reporting the lowest Work-Life Balance (Score 1) are averaging the highest overtime (15.3%), acting as a precursor to burnout and resignation.

Actionable Recommendations (The "How")

1. Overhaul Onboarding Immediately: Implement strict 30-60-90 day check-ins for all new hires to drastically cut the 46% first-year drop-off rate.
2. Audit the Bonus Structure: Redesign the compensation framework to heavily differentiate and reward performance scores, not just job titles, to stop the exit of High Performers.
3. Unblock Career Paths: Define clear promotion timelines and criteria, specifically targeting Senior and Lead roles to retain experienced operational talent.
4. Targeted Department Interventions:
 - Operations: Conduct an immediate workload and headcount review.
 - IT & Sales: Mandate leadership and coaching training for managers to improve the low satisfaction scores.
5. Conduct "Stay Interviews": HR must proactively interview current High Performers to understand their pain points before they decide to leave.

Note on Data Quality: The analysis provides clear directional trends, though some historical data cleanup (missing exit dates, minor outliers) is recommended before executing final financial decisions.
